

Getting to Budva

By Road

The route to Budva is a scenic one, with stunning views on the long curving roads that end with spectacular views of the coastline.

Two-lane motorways connect Budva to the interiors of Montenegro. Podgorica, located about 60 km away, is the chief road junction in Montenegro. It is connected to Budva by two routes. One route is through the new Sozina tunnel and the other through Cetinje. The other Montenegrin coastal towns are connected to Budva through the Adriatic Motorway, which runs from Ulcinj in the south to Herceg-Novi, and goes on to Croatia.

It is wise to stick to the speed limit of 70 km/hr (43 mph), which is both safe and legal.

- From across Serbia through Podgorica - border exceeds Dobrakovo, Kula, Vučje, Čemerno, Dračenovac, Ranče
- From Bosnia and Herzegovina through Nikšić and Podgorica - border exceeds Ilino brdo, Šćepan polje; through Herceg Novi and Tivat - border crossing Sitnica
- Routes from Croatia across the Herceg Novi and Tivat - border crossing Debeli Brijeg
- From Albania over Podgorica - border crossing Božaj; over Ulcinj and Bar border crossing Sukobin-Murićani

Distances:

Budva - Vienna, Austria 1.204 km
Budva - Stuttgart 1503 km
Budva - Munich, Germany 1.269 km
Budva - Dubrovnik, Croatia 113 km

Budva - Cilipi (Airport Dubrovnik, Croatia) 90 km
Budva - Tivat (Airport, Montenegro) 20 km
Budva - Golubovci (Airport Podgorica, Montenegro) 75 km
Budva - Podgorica 65 km
Budva - Niksić 115 km
Budva - Cetinje 25 km
Budva - Herceg Novi 50 km
Budva - Kotor 24 km
Budva - Tivat 25 km
Budva - Bar 39 km
Budva - Ulcinj 70 km